Introduction: Iniva mission and vision

Iniva is an evolving, radical visual arts organisation dedicated to developing an artistic programme that reflects on the social and political impact of globalisation. With the Stuart Hall Library acting as a critical and creative hub for our work, we collaborate with artists, curators, researchers and cultural producers to challenge conventional notions of diversity and difference. We aim to engage a wide audience, particularly young people, in discourse and debate on issues surrounding the politics of race, class and gender.

Through our programme we work predominantly with British-born and British-based visual artists of African and Asian descent supporting them at different stages in their careers. We offer residencies, commission new work and promote existing practices enabling artistic ambition and development. By cultivating innovative thinking, we are committed to disseminating research across a wide cultural spectrum and geographical network. Our ambition is to build a greater body of knowledge around each of the artists with whom we work to ensure the legacy of their practices for future generations of researchers and audiences.

People Directory

Iniva's Digital Archive/People Directory was created in the early 2000s by Iniva's Head of Digital, Gary Stewart and at the time was a groundbreaking resource listing artists, curators, writers and academics working in the relevant fields. It remains a valuable resource which exists nowhere else: <http://www.iniva.org/library/digital-archive/>

Iniva launched a new website in 2017, and want to continue updating the entries, and creating new content. Staff will support the intern with guided areas of research, use of the Stuart Hall Library and feedback on writing and presentation. The intern will have the opportunity to work with Iniva's Programme Coordinator on designing social media content and activity to drive audiences to the new entries as they are updated.
